

UNADILLA SILOS

Now is the time to look up the advantages in different makes of Silos. Of course you expect to have one on your farm sooner or later. Every progressive farmer knows that ensilage makes more milk, and is the finest winter feed there is. We recommend comparison of the Unadilla with others. The deer front alone places the Unadilla above all others. Price advances February 15th. Take advantage of the present large cash discounts.

Few farm implements are called upon to serve as long, under all weather conditions, as a Silo. It is used twice daily for six months of the year. You or your assistants must climb that Silo—it must be strong, safe, easily accessible. The Unadilla unit door fastener presents the easiest, safest and most substantial method there is. Visit your neighbor who has a Unadilla. Climb it yourself—judge by actual experience.

OBITUARY

George L. Clark.

The death of George L. Clark occurred Wednesday night at his home at 22 Union street. On Wednesday evening Mr. Clark had shovelled the way to the barrels in the yard at his home, following an appeal from the street cleaners to aid them in this way. After completing the work he returned to the house considerably exhausted.

Mrs. Clark had entered his room during the night and had found nothing unusual, but upon calling him in the morning and receiving no answer, she called in a doctor, who found that death had occurred during the night.

Mr. Clark was born in Hartford Aug. 18, 1840, the son of Henry Lord and Juliette Greenleaf Clark and came to this city when but 3 years of age. He attended the Broadway grammar school, graduating in the class of 1858, and following his graduation entered the retail grocery business as a clerk for Avery Smith. He held positions as clerk with several Norwich houses and then in 1861 he entered the United States navy as a clerk in the cutter under Charles Adams and served for 13 months on the U. S. S. Dakota. Following his discharge from the navy he again returned to this city and entered the employ of local concerns, and for some time was paymaster at the United States Finishing company's plant in the city.

With the concern for about 25 years and then retired from active business and until 1918 he took no active part in any business. In that year he entered the employ of the American Insurance company, where he remained until the time of his death Wednesday.

Mr. Clark is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Fred C. Wuttke, of New Haven, and two brothers, Henry L. and Albert A. Clark, both of Norwich.

Diamond P. Kane.

Death came to Diamond P. Kane, welfare secretary of the Knights of Columbus home in Huntington street, at his home, 47 Montauk avenue, New London, Wednesday morning. He had been ill for some time.

The illness to which Mr. Kane succumbed had its inception in an attack of pneumonia in the fall of 1918. His recovery at that time was only partial and the ravages of the disease left his system in a weakened condition. He failed to fully regain his health and he had been subject to frequent sickness since that time. A short time ago he contracted a cold which developed into influenza and his condition was too weak to withstand the attack. He had fallen rapidly and the end came Wednesday afternoon.

Diamond P. Kane was born in Scotland about 23 years ago, coming to this country when a boy, making his home in Holyoke with his parents. He went to New London several years ago and for several years was employed as a window trimmer for the James Hilsop Co. Mr. Kane's ability and artistry as a window decorator, received recognition several times when the Hilsop company won prizes in national window trimming competitions.

West Side Silk Mill Banquets Employees

Over one hundred employees of the West Side Silk Mill were given a dinner at the Wauregan hotel on Thursday evening by the Schwarzenbach Huber Company. This is the first time in the history of the large manufacturing concerns that such an event has taken place, where every employee from the manager down to the errand boy has been entertained so well. The banquet marked the beginning of a new plan at the mill to stimulate cooperation between employer and employee and such affairs will become one of the fixtures in the mill life.

At 6 o'clock the employees marched into the dining room, where a large orchestra which furnished music during the dinner, played a lively march. Before being seated those assembled were treated to a short show, in which the mill boys of the local M. C. A. offered prayer. The following menu was served by the Wauregan house:

- Bisque of Tomatoes
- Aux Croissants
- Celery and Olives
- Roast Chicken, Stuffed Giblet Gravy
- Duchess Potatoes
- String Beans
- French Bread
- Harlequin Ice Cream
- Assorted Cakes
- Demi Tasse.

Following the dinner M. L. Bergstresser, manager of the local mill, acting as toastmaster, in a short address expressed the hope that all had enjoyed themselves and that this affair would not be the last. He said that Friday marks the seventh anniversary of the taking over of the mill by the present owners, and that there were now in all four employees present who were with the concern seven years ago. Mr. Bergstresser read a telegram from President Robert F. Schwarzenbach in which Mr. Schwarzenbach expressed his regret at not being able to be present. General Manager Henry Ruegg sent a telegram expressing regrets at being unable to attend and wished the employees an enjoyable evening. Mr. Bergstresser then introduced Secretary Edwin Hill of the M. C. A. as the first speaker of the evening. Mr. Hill's topic was "Socialism."

In his opening remarks Mr. Hill stated that Mr. Bergstresser was a good example of sociability and that the latter's address was a model for something and Mr. Bergstresser is no imitation—he is the real thing. The elements of sociability is first a pleasant personality, second a pretty face, but a face that is smiling. A man with a grouchy face is never a sociable person. The second element is friendliness and a

DOUBLE BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIR

"Danderine" creates mass of thick, gleamy waves

Double beauty of your hair means much to both parties and the lack of it makes all the difference in the world. True friendship is like sound health—its value is seldom known until it is lost. This old world is craving for friendship and this is the element of sociability. The third element is the forgetfulness of self and the thoughtfulness for others. What would happen if we all lived out this principle? There would be no strikes, the employee would think of the employer and the employer of his employee. There would be no need of jails, no trouble in the homes and everybody would be showing kindness to his fellowman. Sociability is one of the great things to be considered in cooperation and unless there is friendship and good feeling there is no harmony and no production.

Mr. Bergstresser then introduced W. H. Schmitt of West Hookens, who is supervisor of human relations at the main plant in that place. Mr. Schmitt in a few words outlined the plan of this welfare work, saying that a few years ago before the large manufacturing plants were established every employer knew all his employees by name and knew the conditions in the home. That time has passed and now being relieved, he will do much to settle labor unrest. It is practically impossible to bridge the gap between employer and employee, but with co-operation this breach may be closed. Here Mr. Schmitt sprang a surprise by telling the employees that a rest and recreation room was being fitted up at the mill, that within a short time it would be open. It is to be equipped with piano, victrola, chairs, sewing machine and a kitchenette is to be built for the use of the employees. There will also be a pool table for the men and the women are to be instructed in dressmaking and millinery. We have the plans, said Mr. Schmitt, and now it is up to you. Co-operate with Mr. Bergstresser and he will cooperate with you.

L. M. Crandall of the chamber of commerce was the last speaker of the evening and he spoke against the production of living and that little production meant the reducing of the value of money for if there was no production there money was worthless. He said it was the laborer on the job that was causing much hardship and that the laborer should produce. Every man should produce as much as possible and this should be done through the cooperation of the employee with the employer.

The evening closed with the singing of "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and a rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Bergstresser and the speakers of the evening.

ROTARIANS OF NEW LONDON ENTERTAIN NORWICH MEN

Some 55 members of the Rotary club of New London and 25 invited guests of this city gathered at the Wauregan hotel Thursday night for dinner and a get-together where Norwich men could be given an opportunity to see what Rotary really stood for.

The New London men arrived at the New Haven depot shortly after 12 o'clock Thursday noon and were met by a delegation of men from this city. From there they were escorted to the hotel where covers had been laid for eighty.

Cornelius C. Costello, president of the New London Rotary club as toastmaster, welcomed the Norwich men and expressed the hope that members of a Rotary club of this city joining with them in the near future. In introducing the various members of the organization he said that the Rotary might be well if every person introduced himself, and he called upon His Honor Mayor Jeremiah J. Desmond, of Norwich, to start the ball rolling.

Mayor Desmond responded in a pleasing way and welcomed the men from our sister city at the other end of the river in words that were second to none. His Honor Mayor E. Frank Morgan of New London was also called upon for a brief address and he was heartily applauded.

The meeting then resolved itself into a regular routine. His Honor, secretary of the New London Chamber of Commerce in his capacity as "Chief Howler" keeping things humorous, caused the surprise of various bits of humor that caused laughter on every occasion. The singing of songs composed especially for the occasion mingled in with the various songs of the evening. The first by the New London men and then by the Norwich delegation bringing forth an abundance of applause.

Following the singing of the songs, Mr. Costello gave a brief history of Rotary, stating that it was started by Lawyer Harris of Chicago in 1905, or that it was started in 1906, and that at the present time it has a membership included some 600 clubs. In setting forth the objects of the Rotary club he said that it was formed for the purpose of:

To promote the recognition of the worthiness of all legitimate occupations and to dignify each member's occupation as affording him an opportunity to serve society.

To promote the maintaining of acquaintance as an opportunity for service and an aid to success.

To quicken the interest of each member in the public welfare of his community and to co-operate with other clubs in social, commercial and industrial development.

Following the address of Mr. Costello the next speaker was "Jim" Hammond, secretary of the New London Chamber of Commerce, who told of the spirit of co-operation between these two great organizations. He said that the motto of the Rotarians was "Service above Self."

Mr. Costello called upon Rev. J. Romsyn Danforth, pastor of the Congregational church of New London, who explained that the membership of the Rotary club was composed of one man from every type of business, this man being chosen to represent the present tense of the business, or that man who could be said to occupy the middle. These men would continue to be Rotarians until they stopped out of business and what is now the future tense stepped into the business to fill their places. He told of how Rotarians got out of their own narrow vision and what they had put into it, plus the number of things put into it by other members. It brought out the best in every man and co-operated properly he called "The Key That Unlocks the World."

Rev. Mr. Danforth was followed by C. E. Templeton of Maine, who told of his experiences while engaged in trapping in the Maine woods. His descriptions of a winter in the woods, miles away from any human being, of how the hunters built their cabins and of several experiences he had had with bears while in the woods, was most interesting to his listeners, and it was with regret that they learned that his talk was so short because of the lack of time before the New London men must return to their homes. Mr. Templeton had spent most of his life in the woods and he had been teaching the Boy Scouts of Maine a few camping and hunting

UNITED CHURCH ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1920

The annual meeting of the United Church was held Thursday night at the church. Rev. Alexander H. Abbott in his capacity as moderator presided over the meeting at 7:15 o'clock with prayer. He then called the attention of the members of the conference of the State Congregational Association which is to be held in this city March 5th, stating that this conference would be a means of better co-operation between the various churches of the state.

The first item of business to come before the meeting was the report of the secretary and treasurer and these were accepted as read. The report of the treasurer showed the total receipts for the year to be $12,754.65 while the disbursements were as follows: Current expense $10,398.87; benevolence $9,258.44, leaving a balance on hand at the close of the fiscal year of $160.65.

The resignation of assistant treasurer, A. S. Comstock was read and accepted with regret.

At this time Henry H. Peck on behalf of the members of the church presented Walter F. Lester with $75 in gold. In presenting the money Mr. Peck stated that the church's resignation of Mr. Lester as a member of the church choir the church had lost a man who had for 28 years given his services to the church, and this present of money was from the members of the church in grateful remembrance of service rendered.

Rev. Abbott then read the names of officers to be filled at the meeting and the regular election of officers by informal ballot resulted in the following being elected: Dr. Hugh Campbell, William A. Allen and Walter F. Lester, deacons; Thomas P. Browning, treasurer; John H. Sherman, assistant treasurer; H. F. Dawley, trustee for three years; Mrs. E. D. Fuller, member of the church for three years; Archie Mitchell, 4th member of the executive council for three years; Mrs. W. P. Wade, woman on executive council for three years; H. W. Gallup, president of Sunday school for one year; John H. Perkins, auditor for one year; William Bottomley, chairman of ushering committee; Jerry H. Brown, chairman of members of ushering committee.

Following the election of church officers for the ensuing year, it was voted that the nomination of Mrs. F. Lester and Mrs. M. F. Thompson as members of the Community House committee be sustained.

The meeting was declared adjourned following benediction by Rev. Mr. Abbott.

A number of changes in the officers of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company were made Wednesday when the directors at a session held immediately after the annual stockholders' meeting, elected two new vice presidents and made other changes, including the election of Frederick C.
